GENERAL GRANT'S ATTITUDE TO WARD GENERAL PORTER.

American Duke's Influence in China and Japan -The Day in Congress-Thanks to the Khedive-Legislation Generally.

Washington, January 9.—The conclusions of General Grant in regard to the Fitz John Porter case seem to have more weight among military men than among congressmen. The weight of opinion seems to be that the letters of Generals Grant and Terry will prove almost decisive in securing the passage of a bill for the relief of General Porter. Those members of the two houses, however, who were prominent in their opposition to such a measure in the last congress, appear to be still holding very decidedly to their former views. The friends of General Logan, for instance, declare that he does not intend to notwithstanding his great personal friendship for General Grant. It is an interesting fact in connection with this discussion that General Garfield, while still a member of the house had very carefully prepared himself for a speech in vindication o the action of the court which tried General Porter. He was very reluctant to take part in the debate, owing to the fact that he had been a member of the court, but after giving full consideration to the subject he had decided that if, in the course of the expected debate, the action of the court should be assailed, he would then vindicate its action upon the floor of the house. He had taken full counsel of the judge advocate general, the attorney general and secretary of war as to how far it would be proper for him as a former member. of the court and now a participant in the debate, for the purpose of vindicating the court, to make known what took place in the private deliberations of the court. While it is no: known what the exact decision upon this point was, it is known that General Garfield considered himself in full possession of sufficient points to thoroughly vindicate the action of the court against all who might assail it on the floor.

It is understood that a portion of this an ticipated speech was writien out and now exists, and that other portions of it exist in the form of notes, and these may yet contribute to the forthcoming debate on the case.

GENERAL GRANT'S ACTION BETWEEN CHINA AND

JAPAN. It now appears that the part taken by General Grant in the attempt to settle certain differences which I ad arisen between China and Japan, was well understood here long before Minister Angel called the attention of the state department to the matter. It was made known by General Grant himself in a long letter to President Garfield setting forth the results of his observations upon the condition of affairs in the East, the relations of these countries to each other and the commercial relations of each to the United States. The character of the information conveyed by General Grant was such as to render the sub-quent letter from Secretary Blaine to Minister Angel which has lately been referred to in the public prints wholly uncalled for. It appears that when General Grant was requested to use his recognized influence between China and Japan in an attempt to settle long standing difficulties in regard to a question of jur isdiction over an island he fully explained to the authorities of both nations that he was traveling solely as a private citizen; that he had no official position, and no authority above that of any other citizen of the United States. In reply the representatives of both governments made known to him that they were fully aware that his official duties were entirely at an end, but also fully appreciated the character of influence which he possessed, both abroad and at home, and on this account he was urged to use his influence to bring about satisfactory settlement of the ques tion at issue. The fact that he had made these representations and that they were clearly understood, was known to President Garfield and known at the state department. It is for these reasons that the friends of General Grant feel that it was en-tirely unnecessary for Secretary Blaine to as-sume in his letter to Minister Angel that General Grant, while traveling in the east, had allowed the impression that he still exer-cised high official powers to go without con-tradiction. It is known that General Grant's deter in reference to the condition of our diplomatic and consular service in China, and particularly that part of it which relates to Consul-General Seward, was regarded as exceedingly valuable by the president and at the state department. That parting which related to the ment. That portion which related to the commercial relations of the east to the commerce of the United States was treated of at length in a letter to President Garfield, the contents of which were also fully contents of which were also fully known at the state department. In fact, it is understood that all of these letters are on file at the department as part of its record, and in case these, with the letters of Secretary Blaine to Minister Angel, do not appear in the forthcoming volume of diplomatic cor-respondence, it it said they will be promptly called for by the senate.

The Arkansas Republicans.

New Orleans, January 9.—A special from Little Rock says: The colored republicans of Arkansas have taken the initiatory steps toward perfecting a thorough organization throughout the state. A largely attended meeting here yesterday adopted resolutions urging immediate action in shaping the policies of the state for the good of the whole people, and demanding the recognition to which their number—being four-fifths of the entire republican rote of the state—entities them. A committee number—being four-into of the cutter reputoical vote of the state—entities them. A committee was appointed to draft a circular letter to the colored voters of the state, soliciting their co-operation in holding a state convention. They also invite the assistance of all honest white republicans. The action of the colored men creates some committee that they have the convention. The action of the colored men creates some commotion, as this is the first step they have taken for recognition as a political faction.

A Most Disastrous Fire

New York, January 9.—Fire was discovered shortly after 4 o'clock this afternoon in the engine room of the immense sugar refinery of Havenneyers & Elder, situated on First street and south Third and Fourth streets, Williamsburg. The firemen were unable to control the flames and the building, which was cleven stories high and covered an entire block, was totally consumed. The loss is estimated at $1 000,000.

Mr. Havenmeyer says the loss on the building and machinery is $1 500,000. There was but little stock in the place. The firm have never been able to have the building fully insured, and say that the insurance will probably amount to sixty per cent. of the loss. It is divided in small risks in companies all over the United States. Foreign insurance companies will suffer most comparatively. Oue thousand men will be thrown out of employment. A new and larger building will be erected with all possible despatch.

WASHINGTON, January 9.-When the court pened its ninth week of the Guiteau trial this norning the crowd filled every nook and cranny of the chilly room, and the ladies were decidedly in a majority. The prisoner arrived at the court house about 9:30, and was taken to his waiting room. He appeared ather nervous and his countenance indicated anxiety. When he had taken his seat in the dock he glanced around stealthily over the audience and he immediately began his harangue evidently intended for the jury.

have received," he said, "some eight hundred letters, a great majority of them from ladies. When I get time I shall attend to them. I want to send my greetings o the ladies of America, and thank them for their sympathy. They don't want me to be nanged. Public opinion is fast changing. I received Saturday a check for $1,000 from the stalwarts of Brooklyn and another for $500 from stalwarts of New York. I want this jury to understand how public opinion is on this case.'

The bailiff here tried to silence him, when he turned upon him in a most vicious manner and sneered out, "You keep quiet and mind your business. Don't interfere with me when I am talking. If you had any sense you would understand your place."

With this opening breeze proceedings in lue form were begun and Mr. Scoville resumed his argument.

He proceeded without interruption for an hour, and his remarks were listened to with marked attention. He laid stress upon the position that insane men often know the difference between right and wrong, and for that reason conceal their plans, and that the nefit of the doubt should attach to the plea of insanity which is raised, with the same force as when urged in connection with the ommission of crime.

Mr. Scoville concluded his argument at 12 Mr. Scoville concluded his argument at co'clock, and in conclusion desired to make some remarks of a personal character. Alluding to his controversies with Judge Porfer, he disclaimed any intension of transgressing the bounds Porfer, he disclaimed any inten-tion of transgressing the bounds of the propriety of the rules of practice, but he should criticise the conduct of counsel when it merited criticism, and threats of prosecution would not intimidate him. Criticising the custom of counsel on the other side of bowing to the jury upon entering, Mr. Scoville said: "Some times it is side of bowing to the jury upon entering, Mr. Scoville said: "Some times it is three bows all around, some times more, never less than three. It has never been done by counsel upon this side, and I do not hesitate to criticis the propriety of it." Judge Porter—"The gentleman is simply instancing his lack of politeness. After the recess, Colonel Corkhill stated hat he had not expected to speak on the that he had not expected to a peak a legal points, relying upon the assurance of defense that the question of jurisdiction would not be raised, but as the last two prayers of the defense distinctly made that issue, he felt it to be his duty as the prosecuting officer of the government to address the court upon the question to which he had devoted much careful consideration. He then proceeded to read from a printed slip an exhaustive argument upon the subject of jurisdiction. The argument of the district attorney occupied be attention of the court for one hour.

Mr. Davidge then addressed the court upon the general proposition contained in the prayers. "I do not deem it necessary," he began, "to advert to the question of jurisdiction et this time."

"A very wise decision," piped in the pris-

Mr. Davidge then discussed the question of 'Mralice,' which he said in its legal sense meant the intentional doing of a wrongful ct, and not as the defense and not as the defense ned to claim. In this respect he thought they had fallen into a grave error. Mr Davidge discussed seriatim prayers of defense and pointed out their sophistries and inconpointed out their sophistric rcies, "The object of prosecution," he "is to obtain from your honor, plain, "is to obtain from your distinct lear and direct ruling upon four propositions. BURBRIDGE REPLIES To the Letter of Blackburn-A Real Kentucky Pas-

which was telegraphed hence last night, and follows

Blackburn. He begins by giving the latter a letter which was telegraphed hence last night, and follows it with the appended response thereto:

Washington, January 6.—Hon. J. S. C. Blackburn—Sir: Your letter of the 27th ult., in reference to mine of the 21st, is received. In it you make the point that the distinguish d gentlemen who approved of my conduct must have acted without the full knowledge of the facts. I decline to assail the character of men whose loyalty to their state and country, at the period of my administration in Kentucky, is in striking contrast to your own. You assume that they have not a full knowledge of the facts—deeds which received the hearty approval of all union men, and which, in a corresponding ratio, provoked the wrath of the rebels in Kentucky, in 1864, were not done in a corner. They were planned in strict accordance with orders from Secretary Stanton and General Sherman, and executed in the light of day. Letters, copies of which will be published in connection with your letter and this reply, were written after my military career had closed, and at the time when the democratic press of Kentucky was loudest in its denunciation of my official conduct. They were written by men who were fully conversant with all facts before and after they had been disnorted by rebel hate. It is to be regretted that in passing sentence upon me as an officer to whom the execution of the orders for the suppression of the guerillas was intrusted, you failed to include in your denuncias tion the guerillas themselves. Have you ever heard how Berry's band murdered Mr. Kalfus in the Bardstown turnpike while he was protecting his wife from insult, and how the incensed neighbors arose and pursued them until Mr. Roberts, a county surveyor, was killed. Hundreds of such crimes were committed by the guerilla bands who roamed over the state you refer to. Men whose acts put them "beyond the pale of civilized warfare in the twilight of barbarism, or worse, in the domain of actual crime." Would it have been an act of this character to hunt down Berry's band and hang every one of its members? If your district was dotted over with graves, it was for such acts as these. As I informed you in my previous letter that not a man was put to death by my order without first having been tried and convicted by a regularly organized court martial. The acts which place the perpetrators "beyond the pale of civilized warfare in the twilight of barbarism or worse, or in the domain of actual crime," were the acts which it became my duty to punish; that I was too lenient, and allowed many to secure pardon upon promise of future amendment. I admit that I was frequently censured for this, is true. At the time when the Kentucky legislators had no power to command me, I appeared voluntarily before the committee appointed by the senate, and all the charges to. which you now refer were fully investigated, and upon the advice of the Hon. Asa C. P. Grover, of the senate, the investigation was abandoned by the lower house. In conclusion allow me to suggest that these were the acts who, like these to whose death you so pathetically, allude, never risked their lives in battle, which not only put the perpetrators beyond the pale of a civilized warfare in the true light of barbarism, or worse in the domain of actual crime, which so far surpass those above mentioned as to provoke inquiry whether they were not concocted by the prince of darkness himself. I allude, sir, to the attempted introduction of clothing infected with yellow fever int

Appended are a number of telegrams and letters. Among others a telegram from General Sherman, dated Big Shanty, Georgia, June 14th, 1864, in which General Burbridge is instructed to hunt down every guerrilla robbet in Kentucky; a letter written the 21st of the same month by General Sherman urg-ing at length that summary measures must be adopted in dealing with guerrillas, and a letter from Secretary Stenton, written from Washington in 1864, authorizing General Burbridge to seize all he can lay his hands on, and to turn over to the

and treat ner as you do other rebels.

Then follows letters from General Schofield, under date of Washington, June 41.1864, and from President Lincoln and Secretary Stantor on the same day congratulating General Burbridge on his victory over Morgan. Numerous other letters including one from Montgomery Blair and one from Salmon P. Chase, are submitted. They indorse General Burbridge's manner of discharging his military duties in Kentucky. The statement concludes with letters from Robert J Breckinridge, W C Goodloe, James Speed, T S Bell, Judge Advocate-General Holt, W R Kinney, C F Burnam, J F Robinson, D M Key and others, all of which tend to show that in the opinion of these writers, General Burbridge's record has been worthy of commendation in all respects.

TRACEDY ON SODUS BAY.

Robbed and Murdered and His Shanty Burned to Oswego, January 9.- Last night a shocking murder was committed at Sodus Point, thirty miles west of this city. James Hall, a colored man who formerly lived in Oswego, occupied as a saloon a small building set on spiles over the water of Sodus bay, which he put there to evade the state law against selling liquor on Sunday, claiming that the state had no jurisdiction over the waters of the bay. Yesterday Hall was in Lyons. He drove over to Newark and took the evening train for home. At about 11:30 his saloon was discovered on fire, and it was soon burned down. This morning Hall's body was found in the water, under the place where the saloon stood, with the head and legs burned off. A cloth covered with blood and a blood-stained slipper found near by led to the belief that he was murdered, robbed, and the building fired to cover the crime. Hall was in the habit of earrying large sums of money with him. Last week he had $2.250, which he showed various persons, and it is thought that he exhibited his money in Lyons yesterday and was followed home. west of this city. James Hall, a colored man who

While a procession composed of 3,000 per ons was proceeding to Pere La Chaise ceme tery to-day, to commemorate the anniversary of the death of M. Blanqui, some of those in the line became objectionably demonstrative and the police were obliged to interfere. Twenty-three persons were arrested, including Louise Michel. A pistol was fired in the crowd, but without result, and the procession hortly afterward dispersed. The suppression of the manifestion Sunday in commemoration of the death of Blarqui, has created a bitter feeling among the working classes, which may lead to mischief.

SEARCHING FOR THE JEANNETTE! St. Petersburg, January 9.-M. Soulkowski who went in search of the Jeannette and or who went in search of the Jeannette and on board the Chasseur, met the United States steamer Rodgers, engaged in the same mis-sion, telegraphs from Irkoutsk under date of December 26, as follows: We parted on the 9th of August from the Rodgers, which steered for Herald island. The Streelok with the Bremen expedition on board then returned to Chinese ports having previously accompanied Rodgers in the search. An American schooner having on board the captain of a stranded whaler, had joined them in Providence bay. The captain stated that he had seen a boat containing corpses and also silver spoons and other articles marked "Jeannette." The boat had been cast upon Herald island. The commander of the Rodgers therefore resolved to proceed thither. He anticipated wintering there, and aided by the dogs purchased at Kamchatska, organizing parties to make a thorough search of the island.

THE PAPAL QUESTION.

London, January 9.—[Special.]—The Standard's correspondent, at Rome, confirms the report published on Saturday by the La Defense, of Paris, regarding Prince Bismarck's note to the quirenial, regarding the calling of a congress of the powers and the preparations of the pope to fly to Malta.

There has been so much talk lately about the proposed removal of the pope from Rome (in one instance the rumor pointed out German) as the country which the head of the Catholic church would prefer as his future home) that it is interesting at the present time to recall what that lively and versatile chronicler of Prince Bismarck's sayings, Herr Busch, has recorded in one of his books. He says that on the evening of November 9, 1970. It soon after the Italians had entered Rome, the following conversation occurred at the German head quarters in Versailles "at tea." "Has your excellency read," asked Count Hatzfeldt, "that the Italians have broken into the Quiring and curious to know what the pope will do Go away? But where? What the Papers Say. A FAMILY ROW.

Gainesville Eagle. A rumor was rife on the streets yesterday of a difficulty between a young gentlemau of this city, and a man from South Carolina, who claims to be a brother of the first and at present living wife of the second party. The young man has been only a few months maryoung man has been only a rew months mar-ried to a most estimable young lady of this city, and for her sake and that of her family we suppress names at least for the present. It is claimed that he has a wife in Carolina, and that the person who attempted the assault upon him with a razor on the public street is her brother who thirsts to avenge her wrong. The assailant is, so we learned at a late hour last night, in jail, and as the matter will, if this be true, undergo judicial investigation we refrain from comment.

AN OBJECT ON THE TRACK.

Savannah News. The passenger train, which left the city on Thursday evening for the suburban resorts on the Savannah, Skidaway and Seaboard railroad, had reached a point about a mile and a half from the city, when the engineer discovered an object on the track, which he took to a young calf from its posture. He imme-tely blew his whistle, and as the object did t move, whistled "down brakes" and renot move, whistled "down brakes" and reversed his engine, but the momentum was too great, and the object was knocked over and the entire train passed over it. We learn from some of the passengers that they felt a little jar but had no knowledge of anything serious, On returning to the city yesterday morning, the engineer kept a lookout for the place where he had noticed the object the preceding night, expecting to see the mangled remains night, expecting to see the mangled remains of a calf, and was shocked to discover the muated body of a colored woman. The coroner is notified and held an inquest, when it was ascertained that the deceased was an old colored woman by the name of Libby Hunter, living somewhere on Lover's lane, and who was known to be of unsound mind. It is supposed she wandered away from her home and had fallen asleep on the track. The jury rendered a verdict that the deceased had been killed by being run over by a railroad train, but attached no blame to the engineer.

A CHRISTMAS DIFFICULTY.

Thomaston Times.

On Christmas eve two very unfortunate difficulties occurred, in this county, at Delray.

Mr. Brad Ferguson, while under the influence of whisky, attacked Mr. Harris, the miller of Mr. James Lewis at Delray mills, and cut him severely, about sundown. A messenger was sent to Thomaston for Dr. J. W. Suggs, who arrived at the place about eight o'clock. About the time he had finished dressing the wounds of Mr. Harris a messen. eight o'clock. About the time he had finished dressing the wounds of Mr. Harris, a messenger came running, into the room and said, "Dock Miller has cut Eb Jackson badly," and the doctor went at once and arrived in less than ten minutes after the cutting occurred, and when he reached the room Jackson was breathing his last. The doctor said to Mr. Miller, "You have killed Jackson." Miller commenced to wring his hands, cry and take on considerably. Dr. Suggs said to the gentlemen present, "Take hold of Miller, he has killed Jackson." Some one in the crowd remarked they were brothers, and the crowd remarked they were brothers, and Miller was allowed to make his escape, as though a man had a right to kill his brother. Miller and Jackson' were half brothers, and had been to Thomaston on the day of the killing and sold a load of shingles and invest-ed the proceeds in whisky, and left town to-gether late in the afternoon. When they gether late in the afternoon. When they arrived at Delray they stepped and went into a shoe-shop, and after some time Miller said to Jackson, it is time for us to go home. Some words passed which seemed to be in a drunken, pleasant way, when Jackson struck at Miller with a piece of sugar cane, it was thought, in a playful way, to knock off his hat. At this time Miller commenced cutting lackson and out him soverally in the back and Jackson and cut him severely in the back and head, and finally stabled him in the heart, and he expired at once. As we have stated they were half brothers, and were perfectly friendly, and nothing but whisky was the cause of the awful tragedy. Miller is a young man without a family, and is still at large. Mr. Jackson leaves a wife and several children. A SERIOUS AFFRAY. Augusta Evening News

A serious affray on the city outskirts ended fatally last evening, and Joe Manly, a colored huckster, was shot and killed by Hugh Luke, a white man who keeps a store in the New Territory, just south of the city limits. A previous difficulty between the two men caused Manly to act disorderly and abusively last evening in Luke's store, and after per-suasion he was twice put out of the house by force. Manly again sought to enter by force, when Luke shot him with a gun loaded with slugs. The charge entered Manly's breast, producing almost instant death. Luke's store was closed, and the colored people of the neighborhood became belligerant and threatened to lynch Luke. Lieutenant Twiggs soon put in an appearance with the mounted policemen, Baldwin and Feagan, and conducted the arrest in order and without rouble. He notified the threatening mob that he would shoot the first man who inter-fered with legal arrest, then went into the house and arrested Luke. The prisoner was hen safely and without disturbance lodged in jail: Coroner Picquet began an inquest this morning, but on account of the confu-sion, and also the threats and loud talking of a mob of colored people he postponed the investigation until 10 o'clock next Monday. Captain Picquet selected his jurymen from the immediate neighborhood of the shooting, and it is made up equally of white and col-

This is to certify that we were relieved of rheumatic pains by one application of Morton's Saponaceous Ointment and rheumatic compound combined. G. W. Hill, Britton Waters, at John M. Hill & Co., 16 Decatur street, Atlanta, Ga.; Samuel Prioleau, of the firm of John M. Hill & Co., Atlanta, Georgia.

leau, of the firm of John M. Hill & Co., Atlanta, Georgia.

I take pleasure in stating that I was relieved of severe pains in neck, by W. T. Morton's Saponaceous Ointment and Rheumatic compound.

December 31st, 1881.

This certifies that I have known W. T. Morton and known of his compounds for several years in his immediate community, and his remedies are there considered as a household necessity.

WM. M. TAYLOR,

with the firm of M. J. Taylor & Co.

Atlanta, Ga., January 2d, 1882.

Morton's Rheumatic Compound, or Morton's Relief, will cure rheumatic and all other pains.

Morton's Relief is good for toothache, cramps, chills, cholera morbus, cholera infantum, running off at the bowels, etc. It is very stimulating. Every bottle certifies itself! For sale by all druggists. Circulars sent on application. For sale by Lamar, Rankin & Lamar, Walter Taylor, Dr. Bradfield, and other druggists.

PROF. J. H. VAN STAVOREN,

Portrait and Landscape Painter, Has Removed His Studio to

No. 73 1-2 WHITEHALL STREET, WHERE HE has fitted up rooms suitable to display his works of Art, and has the largest exhibition of Oil Paintings that was ever before seen in the city, consisting of full length, life-size Portraits of eminent men, lovely women, and beautiful children.

The public are cordially invited to call. Prof. Van Stavoren is now prepared to instruct a limited number of pupils the Art of Portrait or Landscapasinting.

MEANS'S HIGH SCHOOL, 76 NORTH FORSYTH Street, Atlanta, Ga. Exercises will be resumed January 2d, 1882, and continue 24 weeks. No at tempt is made to popularize the school by advancing pupils more rapidly than is consistent with thoroughness. But every student receives individual attention and is promoted according to his acquirements. Our course of instruction is so arranged that the mind may be developed systematically and successfully by mastering those studies first which are simplest and leaving the more abstract and difficult till later. Mathematics, English composition and penmanship receive special attention. French is taught oy a native of France and a graduate of the university of Paris. Much care has been taken to secure the greatest possible proficiency in every branch of instruction. It is our purpose to let nothing that the teacher can do for the good of his pupil go undone. Pupils are prepared for junior class of any college in the state. There is also a special course for young men who wish a business education.

THE COTTON MARKET

CONSTITUTION OFFICE, Atlanta, January 9, 1882 New York—The cotton market opened quiet and steady and a shade under Saturday's closing prices. Nothing of importance transpired during the morning, and the months moved along quietly and without much variation. At noon the market suddenly strengthened and reacted, and during the remainder of the day prices ruled firm. At the close there was a decided upward inclination man ifested, and the general aspect of the marke strongly indicates an immediate advance. However, there appears to be no excitement in the mar ket and fluctuations are attended with moderate sales. The spot market shows some improvement, and quotations were marked up before the close o business; middling now 11 15-16c.

Net receipts for two days 40,756 bales, against 44,160 bales last year; exports 74,141 bales; last year 27,065 bales; stock 1,168,350 bales; last year 921,706

JUSTICE GRAY took his seat on the supreme bench yesterday. MR. STOUGHTON, late minister to Russia died in New York on Sunday morning. MR. LAMAR will be re-elected to-day to the United States senate from Mississippi.

THE citizens of Logansville, in Walton county, are bestirring themselves in favor of a railroad from that point to Lawrenceville. THE colored republicans of Arkansas, know-that state, are demanding their due share of republican patronage. THERE is a possibility that General Grant has made too long a leap in the Porter exoning that they cast three-fourths of the vote of eration scheme. Some of his henchmen do not seem inclined to follow him. THE indications are that Mr. Best, representing the Boston railroad syndicate, has failed to meet the first payment for the lease of the Atlantic and North Carolina railroad. GENERAL BURBRIDGE is engaged in the unnecessary task of trying to justify his barbarous conduct during the war. The sooner he lets the matter drop the better it will be for his own reputation. THE treasury disagreement in Arkansas seems to be giving trouble to the bondsmen of Governor Churchill. It is said that after all the credits are given according to the claim of Governor Churchill, there still remains a deficit of $95,000.

Ir is announced that on his 85th birthday, which occurs on the 22d of March, the emperor of Germany will transfer the sceptre of authority to the crown prince, Frederick William, who will thus become the emperor-re-

SIR EDWARD J. REED is doing a wonderful work for Florida in undertaking to develop and extend her railroad system. Backed by ample capital, and working with intelligent discrimination, he will do more for that state than all the politicians she has known for years. There is room in every section of the south for practical men who will engage in the work of extracting from the earth the stores of wealth that lie hidden therein.

HAYES now reigns as the big man of his home village, and amuses the rural natives by wonderful relations of his experiences in the white house. He does not take kindly to Mahonism, however, which is so much in his favor. He denies having refused to contribute to the Garfield monument fund, as he actually gave $250 toward that object, and made a contingent subscription of $250 more. Having unbosomed himself thus far to a reporter, the truly good man resumed his conversation with the village notables.

THE GUITEAU CASE.

Referring to Mr. Grady's letter upon the Guiteau trial which we printed in Sunday CONSTITUTION, it is a remarkable fact that the first time insanity or delusion was ever pleaded as an excuse for crime was in a case very similar to Guiteau's.

It was in the days of Erskine. A soldier named Hadfield, we believe, had fired at the king, as he rode down a street in London. The soldier was arrested and put upon trial for his life. The great Erskine appeared in his defense, and argued that the act itselfits wantonness, its lack of motive, and the circumstances surrounding it-was proof of mental unsoundness and irresponsibility. He made a grand speech that has since become authority in legal circles, and cleared the prisoner. Thus for the first time was insanity or mental aberration set up as a defense in capital cases. The defense of Guit-eau will be put upon the same issue. There is evidence that the sense of the country is shocked with the abuse of the plea that was perhaps justifiable when used by Erskine. We have seen so many criminals escape by the excuse of insanity that public filberts upon the Chinese functionaries until, suspicion rests upon a defense that is based in the midst of the general fuddlement, they on it. The experts who have testified in the Guiteau case have drawn the lines very proprietor of the American republic, and that sharply on the manias that have been used as cloaks for crime, and have demonstrated that and by his consent. Among other justice has been blinded by shrewd rascals for things, Grant gave some advice respecting the many years. There is room to hope that the plea of temporary insanity, which began with a case similar to Guiteau's, will find its decadence beginning with this trial, and that e shall have a clearer vision on criminal matters hereafter than we have had before.

DR. FELTON AND MR. HILL.

We print in another column a letter from Dr. Felton assaulting Senator Hill in bitter terms. With the personal controversy be-Mr. Blaine, with the promptness and clearen these gentlèmen we have nothing to further than to express our regrets. Hav- ness which has been the distinguishing charprinted Mr. Hill's interview we give Dr. n's reply. In this, as in all other matpartment, explained to the Chinese function-

Mr. Hill ed to be in thorough understanding of an alliance between the stalwarts at Washingsition of General Grant has cut somewhat of and the independents in the south. This a figure in Mexico, where he is interested in ace he considered wicked-its purposes various railroad enterprises. It appears that the prominence of John Russell Young's lish and its methods infamous-and he exed his views upon these points plainly, "Cæsar" was somewhat confusing to the was his duty as a public man. out but that he had succumbed to the inexorable tendency of all independent revolt which is towards the enemy's camp.

Dr. Felton pays little attention to the movement discussed by Mr. Hill. He does not defend the alleged alliance or the policy that brought it about. Mr. Hill's interview rang through the state like a bugle call to the democracy of Georgia, and gratified his friends everywhere. Whether he will consent to engage with Dr. Felton in the bitter personal controversy to which he is so savagely invited, or will hold the discussion to the plane on which he first put it, we do not know. Whatever he does, he will bear himself as befits a senator of Georgia.

be better of course, if our large landholders could sell their surplus land directly to men who want to make new homes; but as this seems to be impracticable on account of the efforts of western railroad companies, we must accept the next best thing, and that is found in these large land syndicates. When they have broken a path to the wild lands of the south, the necessary process of subdivision can doubtless be carried on all over the south without the intervention of middlemen. The syndicates, in other words, seem to be stepping stones to population and prosper-over to a mild form of astonishment. The inference was that Mr. George Jones's financial protege was angry because Mr. Blaine had been wise enough to commend himself to therefore, a stumbling-block to the third

COLONEL FRANK A. BURR would strike a them of popular interest should he conclude to give to the world the confessions of the Hon. Zacharia Chandler with respect to the methods employed to swindle the people out of their choice for presiden in 1876. We have no doubt that Colonel Burr has all the facts in his note-book.

It is a curious fact that just as soon as John Kelly s killed too dead to skin, he jumps up and wallops the entire democratic party. It is another curious fact that the republicans have never thought of ending John on a southern tour.

THE administration and its friends are going to good deal of trouble in their efforts to helittle Mr. Blaine. But, after all, the fact remains that Mr Blaine is a bigger man in this widespread republic than the administration and all its friends.

"THERE is less statesmanship in politics jusnow," says an exchange, "than ever before." This may be true, but there is a good deal more fun.

THE bouquets and favors lavished on Chastin Cox, who strangled a lady in her bed, and the terprising New York contemporaries that rowds of women that attend the Guiteau trial, and lock to the "receptions" of the assassin, and beg or his autograph all go to show that there is som thing rotten in the society of Washington and New These things are not the evidence of vulgarity merely: they are the evidence of a most on Mr. Blaine, who was then secretary of

It is to be remembered, however, that Mr. Stephens never fails to correct those who misunderstand him. What is writ is writ. Mr. Stephens is an organized democrat, and will act with the organized democracy.

THE Cincinnati papers vouch for the following incident: When Miss Annie Louise Cary was about to leave that city a Pullman car with a state-room was attached to the train on the Pan Handle road at her special request. Before she reached the depot a burly fellow asked for the coveted state-room and got it by asserting that he was Miss Cary's agent. When Miss Cary arrived she found the state-room in possession of the big man and two others, and who turned out to be commercial travellers, and who coolly refused to give up the room. As the train rolled out of the depot Miss Cary was seen standing undecided in the aisle, while the conductor was expostulating vainly with the men. Directions were telegraphed to the first station to drive out the men at whatever cost.

A teacher inaugurated the Chistian year of 1882 in Winton Place by seriously flogging a pretty girl pupil who is just badding into womanhood. The victim of the gallant schoolmaster's lash said she couldn't solve a certain problem, and the schoolmaster said she should. The problem was not solved, and the pupil is in consequence wearing some ugly scars, which were being explained before a school committee last evening. The lines of the Winton Place pupils have fallen in pleasant places, and so did the lines of pupils of a hundred years ago, when the master carried a spelling book i.i one hand and an ox gad in another. The Winton Place schoolmaster should be promptly "fired."

The South is Learning.

New Orleans Picayune.

Through the hard process of being ground between the upper and the neither millstones, the south is learning to do her own milling. She will come by rapid strides to the point where she will do all things for herself. When that day comes, those who want her surplus can have it on a good marker, for she will no longer be hounded by poverty and debt to sale without profit. When the time shall have come that the planter's cotton represents his surplus, and not his whole living, then he will always rejoice in prosperity and will always rejoice in prosperity and will always be able to devote some well-earned leisure to the thoughtful investigation of those inventions and devices by the aid of which the practical men will increase the south's riches.

Hammond's Explanation.

Philadelphia Press.

That wonderful expert, Dr. Hammond, who knew so much more about President Garfield's case than any or all of his physicians, has come to the conclusion that Guiteau "is a lunatic in the fullest sense of the word, but that he is, nevertheless, as fully responsible as the sanest man who ever lived." He thinks, therefore, that for the safety of society Guiteau and all who commit crimes similar to his should be duly executed "in an orderly and solemn manner." In his conclusion Dr. Hammond is for once in harmony with the general public sentiment, though it is not everybody who will really comprehend his idea of "re sponsible" lunatics. With those, however, who hold that Guiteau is sane enough to hang we have no dispute.

That the law has so far protected them will, we say, cause some surprise, for usually in matters of this kind our people do not wait for the slow processes of the law; they have learned thoroughly to distrust them: they have grown to believe that the law exists only for the protection of criminals and the multiplication of crimes. The jury system has been abused, every privilege accorded to the acused has been abused, false pleas have been advanced, the laws have been twisted and perverted, and pardons have been twisted and perverted, and pardons have been demoralized, public sentiment has been defied, crime has become common and punishment rare. The chances are as one hundred to one that a thief, murderer, embezzler, even when his goilt is admitted, even when the deepest feellings of the people are aroused, will escape. No class has been so safe, so free from internuption in Kentucky as the criminal class. Crime has so long been unpunished, or inadequately punished, that its followers have been elevated into an aristocracy, and special privileges have been conferred on them. Cincinnati's New Year's Calls.

Cincinnati's New Year's Calls.

Philadelphia Press.

"Messrs. Isaac Cohen, Charles Strauss, Alean Moss and Samuel Amberg." made their calls, says the Cincinnati Commercial, in its columns devoted to Cincinnati's bravest and best in a "furniture car decorated with inscriptions, "We move the old year out," We are moving the new year in," which went "from one street to another, rearing up against the curb as if in the performance of its regular functions." The ingenious device, by which these leaders of Cincinnati society, though on pleasure bent still their business advertised, attracted, the Commercial says, "special attention." It deserved it, the more as its interior was "neatly carpeted and comfortable seats provided for the gentlemen, who were in full dress." If this habit is general in Cincinnati, among those whom the Commercial dignifies with its notice and chronicles in its fashionable intelligence, the imagination reels be wildered at, the unique appearance which a popular and fashionable residence must present on New Year's day with the bager's cart and the butcher's, the dry goods delivery and the iceman's dray, all "rearing up against the curb" in front, asif in the performance of their regular functions, while the innates emerge to pay their vicits "in fulldress."

All this, however, was trivial compared with the cards which "were seen in the reporter's travels" in society in Cincinnati. The gay troubadours of the furniture wagon had cards printed on calleo handkerchiefs, as a token of the past and pledge of the future whose purpose it would be useless to divine. The "souvenirs" of other callers assumed forms "unique" in the experience of the reporter. We agree with him. Nothing short of a social nightmare ever littered the card-basket with "china plates with gilt ornamentation," a "large tinted card representing a blotter," a "gilt salverupon which were engraved representations of gold coin and a government bond," a handsomely emboseed card with a pocket containing a small card bearing the caller's

Gainesville Eagle.

A year ago the Eagle said: "As in the empire all roads led to Rome, so in independenti-in they all lead into the republican camp." In the light of very recent events, we might set up in business as a prophet.

When we of the south become willing that the illiterate and depraved portion of our voting population shall fill our offices, make our laws, levy our taxes, squander our earnings and place is politically, if not otherwise, in a condition of degradation and helplessness, then let us avow ourselves to be a part of a confederation between radicals, independents, if-raffs, rag-tags and bob-tails. Until then let us maintain our self-respect and political integrity.

Baltimore Gazette. 'Eatonton Messenger.

Mr. Marcellus Thornton and some of his friends have inaugurated "an independent movement" in Georgia, and this movement, it is hinted, will have the support of the administration. General Long street is sought to be identified with the movement, whether he secures a cabinet position or not, Judge Lochrane, ex-member of congress, is edentified with this "movement," the result of which, it is fondly trusted, will be to break up the "solid south" in Georgia.

Rome Courier.

The Cartersville Free Press confirms the correctness of the Chicago Tribune's published interview with Dr. Felton, in which the doctor "formulated the issues" for the independents and their allies in Georgia. It says that Dr. Felton wrote out the interview and read it to several of his friends before it was sent off (from Cartersville, we suppose). It would appear, then, that the doctor "formulated" the questions as well as the answers, and it was not so much of an interview as a talk to himself.

Rome Courier.

Every time we try to put our foot down on a solid place in that formulated platform, we feel that we are treading on a quagmire. There does not appear to be any solidity in it. But we are working down towards the bottom, and if there is any "hard pan" we'll get to it after awhile. As to the other newspapers of the state, they will give us plenty of help in good time. The boys have had their Christmas frolies to get over-gayeties such as old fogies like brother Willingham and ourselves indulge in but lightly—but the blast from Senator Hill's bugle horn will rouse them up, and the fight will open along the whole line. Rome Courier.

Augusta Chronicle.

So far as the democratic party are concerned, it will never suffer defeat from the onslaughts of men whose sale purpose is to obtain office. The word principle is unknown in their political vocabulary. Senator Hill is very severe in his strictures upon the new party. He "characterizes the movement as infamous. He says that it will give him the greatest pleesure of his life to aid in sinking it into infamy. This is strong language, and Mr. Hill means what he says. We believe that the movement will fall still-born. It will not even muster a respectable following from among the men who fought Governor Colquitt so bitterly during the last campaign. It is already dooned to irretrievable disaster. Augusta Chronicle.

Savannah News. Savannah News.

Outside of a little ring of political Micawbers and sorcheads, who hope to better their chances for office by whatever may turn up, there is no disorganizing spirit in this state, and any attempt to disrupt the democratic party by affiliation with radicalism will prive a most humiliating failure. There is much windwork going on just now, the object of which is to create an impression in Washington that Georgia presents a fine field for the exercise of government patronage as a means of "splitting the solid south." There is no ground for any such hope on the part of our opponents, and if the administration is deluded into making the experiment it will realize in the end that it has made a sad waste of its powers of corruption. The true democracy of Georgia was never more united, harmon's and firm than it is to-day.

It would not be just to let the cotton exporition ass away without paying proper tribute to the enrgy, tact and ability of Mr. B. W. Wrenn, who was the head of the department of transportation. Mr. Wrenn was at work night and day in the interest of the exposition, and traveled over the entire country arranging schedules, and the fact that he obtained lower rates than were given to the centennial stamps his work as successful beyond comparison. There is no man who knows the passenger systems or passenger agerts of the country better than Mr. Wrenn, and this knowledge he gave the exposition the entire benefit of. It is confessed on all sides that the railroads saved the exposition, and no one had so much to do with getting the railroads to the rescue as Mr. Wrenn. All the officers of the exposition combine in according to him the high-est praise for his energy, his skill and his devotion,

SOME HEAVY HITS AT THE GEOR-GIA SENATOR.

Dr. Wm. H. Felton Makes a Review of Mr. Hill's Record in Reply to His Recent Statements About the Independent Movement Now Incubating in Georgia.

NEAR CARTERSVILLE, GA., January 7, 1882 .- Editors Constitution: To day's paper containing an interview with Senator Hill, has just been received and read carefully. "H. W. G," your staff corres-pondent, says it was sent with Mr. Hill's approba-

This interview does not surprise me in any way. Anybody acquainted with Mr. Hill's past record need not be astopished at anything he may do in politics or friendship.

Whenever he proposes to attack with a malign purpose he always makes loud professions of friend-ship, and you can measure his malignity by his

Mr. Hill was a college mate of mine. The friendship then formed has been to me something stronger than political differences or party alliances. I have seen many things in his erratic public course that I was obliged to disapprove, but, while claiming to be his friend, I was enough of a gentleman to say it to his face and in private. As Burke said to Fox, "our friendship is at an end."

I propose to deal with him as I should do with any other public man, and judge him by his record, which I know to be as eccentric, as unwise, as un-patriotic, and too often as seemingly corrupt as that of any other politician whose evil counsels have as-sisted to blight the interests of the state which gave him birth. The public will bear me witness that this controversy with Mr. Hill was not of my seek-

1 am a freeman, and a plain citizen of Georgiaa man who is proud to know he has always paid his debts, and endeavored to protect his public and private character from any imputation of corruption of dishonesty. I challenge records with even Senator Hill in any and every station in life, and shall be satisfied with the verdict of the public on the "honesty" issue. His lofty assurance in stating to your reporter that I was "honest when I started out," therefore, only provokes a smile. I defy him or any other man in Georgia, or out of it, to prove dishonesty upon my public and private reputation. If he can furnish any proof, I demand its appearance at once. It strikes me he would be the last man to charge such an imputation as the one above quoted, if he could be made to see him-self as others see him.

Furthermore, if he or any other man affirms that an "ultimatum," requiring me to join the republican party, was presented to me by President Arthur, or by any other person whomsoever; or that I have ever accepted such an "ultimatum," I pronounce the assertion a most unqualified falsehood, originating in hate and malignancy.

I am now what I have been for years an inde-I am now what I have been for years an independent in politics, and I am happy to know that no ring-master's caucus ever compelled any man to vote for me against his will, nor did I ever go into convention, and when they refused to nominate me, went before the people to be elected by "radical" and independent votes, as did Mr. Hill at Gainesville. He raised no "hue and cry" at that time about "Africanizing Geordia." He was glad to get every "African's" vote and now returns them railing and abuse for their mispiaced confidence in his "honesty."

time about "Africanizing Geordia." He was glad to get every "Africanizing to your and now returns them railing and abuse for their mispiaced confidence in his "honesty."

His record before the war, during the war, and after the close of the war, is too well known to the people of Georgia to recapitulate here. He was known to be all things to all men, always distinguished for violence and animosity.

In the matter of democracy I can safely compare records with the gentleman and If mine does not stand the test better than his own, neither deserve a place in the democratic party. At the famous Delano banquet, he frankly stated "if he was a democrat, he never intended to be," and his course since that time, gives unmistakeable evidence that he accidently soke the truth.

As late as the year 1877, he was an outspoken friend of Mr. Hayes, an out-and-out republican president. In his faw o is address to the people of Georgia, he says: "I was anxiors to support the present federal administration." He urged the citizens of Georgia to accept office from him, and no word of complaint was heard until the senator failed to prevail on the president to bestow the patronage according to his dictation. Then he be ame as blatant and abusive as he was to Governor Colquitt about the "Murphy fee." Since that time he has rung all the chauges upon the federal appointments in the Louisiana custom house, which might have been laudations instead, if President Hayes had been willing to obey the behests of the senator.

His attack on Governor Colquitt is better understood now than when he issued that famous address. I have it before me at this writing, also the equally famous interview in the Baltimore Gazette in which he uses these words about the governor: "I do admit it was corruption, and no instance of that class of corruption was ever more clearly proved, or more distinctly marked or more feebly excused." The offense to the senator as it turned out, did not lie in the fact, that the governor knew a fee was to be paid, when he did sig request; but the crowning it famy—the proof of the corruption existed in his own failure to get the $7,000—and the preference disolayed by the governor for the legal ability of Mr. Murphy, rather than that of Mr. Hill. It will always be a question, whether this exciting little episode would ever have occurred, if the Iee had taken an agreeable direction.

While these charges progressed, the senator was fairly smothering the governor with continuous protestations of warmest friendship—nor did he desist when his own son, for some unaccountable reason, produced in print a certificate of good character which was as eulogistic of the governor as his father's forious accusation had been otherwise.

With this charge and others hanging over the governor the people refused to assent to his nomination again, and the clamor was loud for the appearance of Mr. Hill on the stump to explain this corruption so well set forth by him in the public prints. Did he do it?

This honorable gentleman fled ingloriously from nation again, and the clamor was loud for the appearance of Mr. Hill on the stump to explain this corruption so well set forth by him in the public prints. Did he do it?

This honorable gentleman fled ingloriously from the state, mendaciously asserting he never brought a charge against the governor in his whole life. Such is the quality of his patriotism in state politics! Now, that he aumounces himself eager to charge upon the independents, horse, foot and dragoons, it is believed he is controlled by the hope of retaining the influence of other politiclans in the state for his own particular benefit. A friend saggests for me as the cause for the present attack upon Georgia independents, the appearance of an editorial squib in your paper, intimating "some independent would run for his place." In my opinion, nothing could have been written that would have exasperated him more. His vanity is equal to anything, and he is impressed that he has a divine right to the place. It is a question to be solved, whether the state of Georgia is longer willing to be hampered in her material and industrial progress by the sectional prejudice and short-sighted policy of a senator who plays independent or regalar, just as his own ambition or peeuniary profit suggests. He has lost all influence with his own party—and being the laughing stock of his enemies, he is powerless to aid Georgia in any effort he may undertake. His advocacy seals it with defeat.

His former friends will be grieved to see such a total lack of policy as they find in this crusade upon the good men of the state who have clung to him through "thick and thin," because they believed he was playing a part in his desire to keep the favor of the organization, while at heart he was liberal and conservative. His worst enemies will exult over his want of judgment, and he will soon find himself where they have long desired to see him, namely, without friends or a following.

As to the rest of his tirade against myself, I snap my fingers in the face of it. Georgia has he ate I wish the senator to understand distinctly, that in politics, which I shall continue to be to the form yilfe.

If Mr. Hill is to be the leader of the opposition, and this exhibition of uncalled-for fury and malice is to be received as the spirit of the party, I think I am safe in predicting there will be thousands of recruits to the independent camp. Honest men of all parties will refuse to sacrifice their self-respect to perpetuate such leadership. Very respectfully, W. H. FELION.

IN THE MATTER OF RAILROADS,

Louisville Courier-Journal.

General Alexander, who has been absent in the south for about a week, returned yesterday. He says he was entirely satisfied with what was accompl-shed at Savannah in regard to the ocean steanship stock. He was anxious to have Mr. Wadley remain at the nead of the Central, which he will do. General A.'s only object was to have some certificate which will represent the capital invested in docks, piers, steamboats and steamships which are owned by the Central, but not represented by any of the stock. Certificates to the amount of fortyfive per cent will be issued, the dividends on which will not be fixed, but which will depend on the business of the steamships; he expects a dividend annually of from four to six per cent.
and this will in no wise interfere with the Central dividends, as that company can with ease pay 8% per cent annually. General A. encountered quite formidable opposition at the outset, but when his plans were fully understood he largely increased his support. Everything now is entirely harmonious.

THE FLORNDA ROADS.

THE FLORIDA ROADS.

At this season of the year the thoughts of thousands of people in the cold and innospitable regions of the continent are turned to the "Flowery Land" in advance of their footsteps. They dream of a health restoring climate made attractive by orange groves, and a mantle of verdure almost tropical. Such associations have not only given a business interest to progress in that state that bids fair to develop very rapidly its local advantages and productions, but to consummate improvements in which the whole country is deeply interested. We hear of the sale and transfer of the Transit railroad, including what is known as the Peninsular railroad, as well as what is known as the Florida tropical. Sir Edward Reed is the purchaser and has taken up the labors of the venerable Fx-Senator David L. Yulee, the father of the internal improvement system of Florida, and has entered on the active duties connected with the management of the great interests mentioned. In the successful experience, sufficient means and vigorous energy and manhood of the new manager, the people of Florida, and all interested in the transit facilities and productions connected with that state, have not only an assurance that the right man is in the succession, but that the fact is a near approach to the consummation and completion of the unification of a railroad system across south Florida to the gulf of inestimable value. Without reference to increased facilities thus afforded in intercourse and ordinary business between grand divisions of the country, these improvements open up and give Immediate market outlet to a large district of country rich in many supplies of commercial value, and especially important in enlarging the area of its almost tropical fruit productions for home consumption. We welcome, with the quick appreciation of interest, the development and prosperity of sections so long in social and business associations with our city, and trust that mutualities of every kind may bind us closer together.

R. W. L. RASIN & CO. An Interesting Exhibit of the Affairs of the

Baltimore American. A very large meeting of creditors of R. W. L. Rasin & Co., representing between one and two millions of dollars, was held yesterday at the office of Thomas M. Lanahan, trustee. Mr. Lanahan was asked by the creditors to preside over the meeting, Mr. Dunan being requested to act as secretary. The trustee stated to the meeting that the trust pose of extoring to them a statement of the assets and liabilities of the firm, and to hear such suggestions and advice as they might be disposed to tender him, looking to aspeedly settlement of its affairs in such manuer as would be best calculated to promote the best interests of all concerned; that he had invoked the jurisdiction of a court of equity, through which he proposed to administer the trust, and would be glad to carry out any suggestions that would be most agreeable to the creditors and consistent with position, and which, at the same time, would meet the approbation of the court. He then read a statement of the assets of the concern, which embraces personal effects and real estate of R. W. L. Rasin & C. o. and R. W. L. Rasin individually, aggregating $1,688,966.11. The trustees further stated that, of course, in this nominal list of assets was embraced a very large amount of debts due to the firm—good, bad and indifferent—reaching through a period of ten years of business. Many of the debts embrace the debris of successful and unsuccessful years of the business of the house. The statement, as read, placed the total assets at $1,689,361.11, and total liabilities $1,561,811.96: surplus, $124,125.65; net value of R. W. L. Rasin's personal estate; $36,457.40 total surplus, $160,582.45. Of the assets the most prominent are the Cross street and Anne Arundel county factories, value, with stock and material on hand and in hands of agents, a $1,125,296.58. The remainder of the assets are kenerally bills due the firm. Of the liabilities the bills payable, secured by collaterals, amount to $665,374.99; net secured, $505,496.07; open accounts, secured by collaterals, amount to take into consideration the statement that had been laid before it, and to report such action that they would advise as best calculated to promote a settlement of the estate at the earliest practicable time, and at the same time promote the best interests of the creditors. The statement is agreed to be more satisfactory than anticipated

In the making up of the new business, if Mr. R. I. Ruth, who had charge of the south for the old firm, is left out, the most important element of success, so far as the south is concerned, will be omit-

Mr. Ruth has few equals and no superiors in the development and management of the fertilizer bus. iness. When Mr. Ruth took charge of the southern development and managements of the southern business of the firm about six years ago, it had a business of about 1,000 tons all told. By his admirable tact and energy he pushed it to over 40,000 tons. He has a personal and pleasant acquaintance with nearly every reputable merchant in the southern states—has the confidence and esteem of all who know him, and is a favorite with all our people. Without Mr. Buth's services the enormous and splendid business he has built up in the last few years will be lost and scattered. We earnestly hope that in the reorganization Mr. Buth will be put at his old post in charge of the southern business. This will be the best for the company, and best for the country, and Mr. Ruth's thousands of friends will welcome him back. There is simply no man that can do what he can do with the southern fertilizer business, and none that will leave so many friends behind.

Thank food, my democracy is not smirched with such a crime as this.

With all my defects as a democrat, I was never in consultation at Wormiey's hotel or any other hotel, with the most prominent republicans in the union, bartering away the rights and hardly-earned triumphs of the democratic party for and in consideration of a little federal patronage and a little praise from the republican party.

I have never by "folly supreme" justly earned, among my colleagues in congress, the title of "destroyer of the democratic party."

I am sorry for Mr. Hill. Blessed with most wonderful gifts of oratory, he has fritted away the grandest opportunities a public man ever had. The embodiment of self-conceit, forever absorbed in contemplation of his imaginary greatness, he has actually done nothing for his state or country that will live in the memory of the true, the good and the particite.

In conclusion, Messrs. Editors, I am more than ever convinced that a man should be independent in politics, which I shall continue to be to the close of my life.

If Mr. Hill is to be the leader of the opposition, after the feet world in doubt whether the feet world in constant and the microscopic proposition and the monopolitics and the monopolitics, which I shall continue to be to the close of my life. been based on the alleged interview with him, for he took the pains to rise in the senate to a privileged question and declare that he had never expressed the opinions attributed to him on this question.

Some have even nah are hereby notified that at the slightest attempt to water the stock of the Thomaston branch railroad, we will unload on the market.

Unless there are very unusual reasons in support of a claim of this kind it would be a waste of time and energy to bring it before the present congress.

Some republicans here are worried ver the policy adopted by their brethren in Georgia in taking the ead of the proposed coalition with the independent element. They say that it will righten away many of the half persuaded when they know that in joining the new party they must enlist under a republican oanner. The point is to get as many men into the movement as possible and its avowed subserviency to republican rule will place it too near the old lines to take in many recruits, The best plan, say these critics of the scheme, would be to call all "anti-bourbons" together and make a united campaign against the regnant elements of democracy. When we consider what "anti-bourbon" means, this plan appears plausible. Probably no word in the English language covers such a territory of definition. It includes all stalwart republicans and ail half-breeds; likewise all the gentlemen who call themselves 'independents." The little greenback party is packed snugly in one corner of this enormous word. Occupying somewhat more space, but still away inside this verbal pale, is the noble army of office-seekers who don't see their way army of office-seekers who don't see their way through under present organizations. The boundaries of the big word are a little sinuous for while they leave out debt-payers and take in repudiators in Virginia, they are twisting so as to leave out repudiators and take in debt payers in Tennessee. It is a wonderful word, when all the anti-bourbons are collected in Georgia or elsewhere they will present an array as gorgeously various as one of our old seems. ray as gorgeously various as one of our old time Atlanta Rex processions. There are other republicans here who think the Georgia plan is wise. They say it has been the policy of their party in the south to support what are called independents and after several years of experiment on this line they do not find any very fruity results. The independents have gobbled up the spoils of the few victories won leaving their republican allies to feed on the wind of glory.

In Virginia they managed to get a place on the state ticket when a hard fight was coming and every republican vote was needed by the readjusters. The plan worked well, and the one republican on the ticket elected himself and all the rest. Then his party asked that he be sent to the senate, and found that this was too big a plum for any but a genuine, hungry readjuster.

The Georgia republicans want to put themselves in the lead. They do not want a few thousand independents to dictate to the eighty or ninety thousand republican voters in the state.

in the state.

These are the two views of the impending crisis in Georgia I have heard from different republicans. Most of them speak cautiously and request that in no event shall their names be coupled with their expressions. They say they do not d for all possible unanimity. Some of them appear to honestly think that the next Geordia election will result in what they call a diberal victory." I hear that letters are flying to and from between the leaders of the new movement and persons high in power with the administration.

Some of these communications would furnish rich reading, but they are guarded among the most sacred archives and cannot be touched by unanointed hands. Georgia is looming into great prominence and before the year is past may be as much the subject of gossip at the capital as was Virginia last winter. The cry was for awhile after the vic-tory in Virginia, "North Carolina next!" But the "anti-bourbon" tar-heels are allowng their "cracker" friends to run ahead of elves very fully on the new party, but they eem to regard it with a remarkable degree of quanimity. Colonel Thornton and Colonel ck Brown, as well as the other prominent aders of the movement are apparently in high hopes, keeping pace with their enthusi astic friends and lieutenants in Georgia. Colonel Thornton leaves Washington Atlanta to-morrow to make that city home hereafter. F. H. I

ATLANTA, January 7, 1882.—Editors Constitution: It was my intention to have written an article as above some time ago, but owing to my being very busy besides being nearly sick with, as well as of a bad cold and its attendant luxuries, I have omitted writing the article until now. Being one of the exhibitors here at the Atlanta International cotton exposition it was my good fortune to receive a complimentary invitation, with the rest of the exhibitors, to an entertainment gotten up and participated in by the Gate City Guard, of Atlanta, at DeGive's opera house, on Thursday afternoon of December 8. I am not disposed to flatter in the least, and far be it from me ever to do so. But the good old motto, "honor to whom honor is due," corresponds precisely with my ideas of what I saw at the above mentioned entertainment. It has been my good fortune to visit nearly all of the precisely with my ideas of what I saw at the above mentioned entertainment. It has been my good fortune to visit nearly all of the great countries and different nations of Europe, and in so doing I have had numerous chances to see and visit very many of their best military organizations, and in so doing have seen very many of their best trained and drilled regiments and companies who were pronounced not only the very flower of iheir nation's army, but were looked upon as akin to a miracle, so accurate and perfect were they in their drilling and is every move they made, that we have been very much interested, often with others, in watching their wonderful feats in military drill and difficult tactics, and we had come to look on the drilled soldiers of many parts of the old country as far superior to those of any other, and especially so to any found in a new and young country like the United States of America. COUNTY TREASURER'S OFFICE, FULTON COUNTY.

ATLANTA, GA., January 9, 1882.

To the Honorable Board of Commissioners of Roads and Revenues for Fulton County, Georgia: Gentlemen: Abave you will find a statement of amounts received and paid out by me as Treasurer for the past year. The amount disbursed on account of the Court House under process of erection during the preceding year was $53,186.80. The other disbursements, amounting to $62,825.58, were in the main in payment of checks drawn on the Treasurer by your honorable body on account of the Superior and City Courts, Jail, Alms House, insolvent costs, interests on bonds, officers' fees and salaries, chaingaing, roads, bridges, etc. A detailed itemized statement therefor is not given on account of their multiplicity, and requiring if given a transcript from the record of entries for the entire year. The books, however, together with receipted vouchers, are at your disposal, and examination thereof respectfully solicited agreeably to authority vested in your honorable body by the Code of Georgia. The only debt against Fulton County is for forty thousand dollars worth of court house bonds payable in 1885, 1884 and 1885. It is presumed that the current expenses for the ensuing year will not be in excess of last year.

Very Respectfully,

C. M. PAYNE, Co. Tr. F. Co., Ga.

was our surprise on witnessing what we did in the way of perfect army drill by the famed Gate City Guard on that to us memorable day and occasion. Never before in any part of this or any other country have we seen anything fit to compare at all with the difficult feats we saw executed there and then in the perfect time and order. In fact should any one have told us that it were possible for anybody or company of soldiers to go through with such difficult and wonderful feats, and all in such exact and precise time, potwintstanding all the extreme counter changes we could not have believed it possible until we saw it actually done in the masterly and superb, as well as faultless manner with which everything was executed. On the 9th of last July we had the pleasure of being present and witnessing the grand and royal review of her majesty's volunteers of the army and navy at Windsor Park, in Eugland, in which 62,000 men were in line and marched in a close line of twenty-five men abreast to very quick time and were upwards of three hours in passing the royal stand and while there we were located near to her majesty's carriage, as well as those of all the royal family present, together with the leading army and navy officers, and wrote up a report of what we saw for the press. Certainly the whole review did great credit to them as a people and nation, and was a grand success all throughout, and right there we

WHO SAT IN THE CHAIR TO WHICH SAM WAS ELECTED

His Present Position Among the Clods of His Native District—How He Passes the Dags of His Ob-sourtly—What He Thinks of Several Pending Issues, Such as Mahdneism.

FREEMONT, O., January 10 .- [Philadelphia Press.]-There is nothing imposing in the presence of Hayes on the streets of his native town. He dresses a trifle better than the most of the people here, but he does dress, and dress is an abomination in their sight. For such offenses, however, he is easily forgiven, and his fellow citizens regard him with a calm, familiar surprise that threatens to wreck their veneration for our national history. I id not have to make a full grown inquiry as to the whereabouts of the ex-president before I learned that he was pretty sure to be found at P. Doer's shoe store, a town resort where the amiability of the proprietor and his Christian qualities of forgiveness reign over the advisory councils of the nation that hold long sessions there and are joined in by Mr. Hayes himself. 'I do not learn that in them he carries a vast deal of weight. I pray you remember that Mahlon B. Chance lives here, and Stanley Huntley, the Brooklyn journalist, and creator of Spookendyke papers, comes here to visit. In such discussions as arise, then, Mr. Hayes seems to find the mental exercise necessary to keep the liver of his brain active. They sit on stools there; the great stove crackling with its wealth of flaming chestnut wood fuel continuing from 10 till 1, 3 to 6, and 7 to 9:30 o'clock, which seems to be the altar around which they gather. It is the custom which permits ex-generals to be called general, and so on." a sort of lyceum, this same shoe store, a con vocation of bishops without authority, a parliament after a Cromwell has dismissed it and its rights have vanished. Nevertheless, wire stitched shoes cost from two dollars and Afty cents to five dollars and fifty cents in that same store. Well, that is Hayes's hang-out, as one would say in some big eastern city, if he were talking slang. Fremont is not addicted to slang. In its most piquant phases the idiom of its state maintains as the lowest order of expression cur rent there such harmless though suggestive remarks as "Dog-on-it," "Je Whilkins," "Hoppin' Moses," and in spasms of great excitement very much emphasized, "Great Scott" and "darn my buttons." Referring in the most cursory way to the latter oath, a practical and even a non-observant mind would say how much more beneficial it would be if the adjuration were in the interest of the pantaloons rather than the buttons. Never mind about that, for the most concerned parts of Mr. Hayes's garments do not belong

If I say that I think Mr. Hayes is glad to meet somebody that tells of the outside world in this association.

I do not wish to discredit the value of the Toledo papers nor the strength of the interview which shall follow this introduction to his house. It stands in a grove of oaks and soft maples, a large brick house with an un-finished appearance, a veranda in front, and going around half of each side. There is a outhern air in its architecture that is no other neatly painted outhouses and stables.

A patent gate swings open automatically, giving admission to the old-fashioned country hack that carries me up to the house. There is no door-bell nor knocker, and the polished, hard wood door presents a most unhospitable wall to further progress. most unhospitable wall to further progress.
Turning around the corner I found the expresident raking dead forest leaves. He wears a blue jean pair of overalls, a fine broad-brimmed black hat and an old coat. I broad-brimmed black hat and an old coat. I notice that his hair has turned from brownish gray to white, but his complexion is still fresh and youthful and is unfurrowed by wrinkles. There is a farmer look about the man. Only the beard is trimmed and combed and the boots he wears are neat, well made calfskins. He is glad to see me, he says, and sends his son, Webb, around to the front deep to admit me. front door to admit me. In Webb I note the greater change. When I used to see him at church fairs and centennial celebrations two or three years ago he looked like his own pa's own son. There was a suggestion of a divinity student in his dress and manner. There is none of that now.
Life wears a big diamond stud in his well-fitting Claudent scart; his pantaloons are from Bell's, and his hat from Dunlap's. His shoes are foreign pattern, and his jewelry rather flashy. Nevertheless, he looks twice the man he was, and I dare say he is, for he is engaged down in Cleveland in the manufacturing business, and he is home just now for the holidays. Burchard a practicing lawyer, in partnership with the son of the chief justice of the United States, has his habitat in Toledo. Rutherford, Jr., is going to school in Boston; the other three children, two boys and a girl, all of them under sixteen, are attendants at

Mrs. Hayes, in the dining-room, is superintending the preparation of the New Year's dinner, and flits in and out of the big room. The interior of Mr. Hayes's house is even less imposing than the exterior. The hallway has a generous width and reaches to the rear wall. There are two souare rooms on each side of it. There are two square rooms on each side of it. None of them are carpeted, but the floors of There are two square rooms on each side of it. None of them are carpeted, but the floors of hard wood are polished and a rug in the middle relieves the barren appearance of the establishment. A soft coal fire blazes in the grate, a piano stands in the corner, a handsome chain of steers' horns rests against the wall, a few books on the table, and a bad chromo is hung, whose perspective causes rivers to run up hill, and the blood-red sun, which is the centrepiece of the background, to cast the shadows the wrong way. There are other pictures, but mostly photographs. One is of Grant, another of Schuyler Colfax, and a frame containing the pictures of the cabinet ministers of the regime of Hayes. The room is pleasant enough, painfully clean and in wretched good order. Pretty soon Mr. Hayes comes in. There is an odor of Castile soap arising from he hand he extends to greet me, and directly he begins to say he does not wish to be put before the public. However, as my errand is to interview him, and there are rights which he cannot abridge for me, he will say first that he is thoroughly rested from the cares of office.

"Do you intend to return to public life?"

Do you intend to return to public life?" No, I have no aspirations that way. I uld say that I do not intend to."

Your administration was not unpleasant,

"No, on the contrary, it was very pleasant. The first two years of it were to lsome and fraught with all sorts of trouble and hard work. The country was not prosperous. The last two years were not so burdened and the country was prosperous. We left it so."
"Then you look back upon your administration with satisfaction?"

"Yes; there is next to nothing that I would have changed. There were bickerings in the party. A president should rise above those and seek the best interests of the country, no difference whet the feelings in the ace what the feeling may be on the part of leading partisans."

"Are you referring to Mr. Conkling and the New York republicans?"

"No; I may have had New York in mind, but those old feelings should not be stirred up.

"Yes; I have. There is, I think a tenden-"Yes; I have. There is, I think a tendency to prepare a campaign in the south on the same general plan that Virginia was carried for Mahone. Now, I am strongly opposed to that course on principle. It savors of dishonor. It is repudiation in effect, and to foster that idea is dangerous, and undermines the spirit of our best institutions. The south should pay its debt. It is not hard to cultivate a feeling such as has been promoted in Virginia, and I dare say that a southern republican majority will be the next thing we hear of."

"I am speaking generally; and besides, it is not good taste in me to say these things."
"If an Ohio man were named on the democratic ticket for 1884, do you think he could arry the state? carry the state?"

"It depends, I should think, very much upon the man. I have not heard of any can didates. Have you?"
"Yes; Thurman, Gentleman George Pendle ton, Payne, of Cleveland, and even Frank Hurd, of Toledo."

"Hurd is too young a man; besides, he is a free trader. The west, having for a long time accorded the east a support for its tariff business, now finds itself on the point of gaining some of the advantages so long enjoyed exclusively by the New England and Middle states. The south, too, is turning its attention to manufactures. The demand for protection will come in no uncertain way from there

Then free trade as a platform couldn't, ou think, find a party out of both parties to tand on it?"
"No. If this country ever adopts free trade

"There was some rumor current about your going abroad. Is there any truth in it?"

AMERICA STILL FURTHER AHEAD!

ATLANTA INTERNATIONAL COTTON EXPOSI-TION.

WILLIMANTIC SPOOL COTTON PRONOUNCED THE BEST THREAD FOR SEWING MACHINES-TWO GOLD MEDAL AND THE GRAND PRIZE.

The thread exhibits made by three of the largest manufacturers of spool cotton were a distinguishing feature of the great International Cotton Expositiona:
Atlanta. The Willimantic Thread Company, a distinctively American institution, displayed what was generally admitted to be the most complete exhibit ever made of any industry at any World's Fair. A whole system of machinery in operation was shown in this company's space, and taking the raw cotton from the bale, it was turned out as finished thread ready for market, passing through all the many requisite and delicate processes in plain view of visitors, even the spools upon which the thread was wound, and the boxes in which it was packed being made on the spot.

The Willimantic Company, in making so large an exhibitat the first great Southern fair, showed a proper appreciation of Southern intelligence, and the judges in bestowing upon this company all the honors awarded for spool cotton at the Exposition, only echoed the public sentiment formed at the South after seeing how Willimande Thread is made. Governor Colquitt, of Georgia, responding to a toast at a reception in Atlanta, also added his indersement by saying:

"Having worn and found good a suit of clothes made from cotton picked in the morning from the field and before night woven cut, made and pressented to him by the Willimantic Company, he stood in a position to endorse the Willimantic Thread, and recommended it to every family in Georgia and the

The completeness of this latest victory achieved by the Willimantic Company can be better understood by reading the following extracts from the official reports of the judges of award:

GOLD MEDAL NO. 1.

In closing this report the judges desired to express their unanimous commendation of the Willimantic Thread Company for their enterprise and liberality in making this notable exhibit, and recommend a special gold medal award as a deserved recognition of the same."

THE GRAND PRIZE.

"For an excellent exhibit of an admirable system of organization and special institutions for prom harmony and increasing the material, moral and intellectual well-being of work people in manufacturing establishments. * * * * And your committee recommend that an exemplary recognit shall be made of the value and importance of this exhibit by the award of a grand prize of a medal or piece of plate of the value of $500 to the exhibitor of this admirable exemplification of new methods for the convenience and improvement of the employees in the manufacture of cotton, considering that such provision is of even greater importance than any new ent in machines for preparing and manufacturing cotton."

FOUR OTHER AWARDS. In addition to the above, four other awards were recommended by the judges for exhibits shown by the Willimantic Company, among them being the only award for a spool cotton winding machine.

NEW MORSE COTTON COMPRESS. The Largest and Most Powerful Compress on the Earth.

With a Lifting Power of 3000 Tons.

THIRTY-FIVE have been built and erected n our years; and for this period twice as many as all other Compresses, and in the last two years five times as many as all others combined in the United States, making the investment in the Morse Fress over one million dollars in four years. 400,000 pounds of material are required for a single Compress, and only fron is used of the highest known gade. Their immense weight, strength and durability, make them in the end, the cheapest Compress in use, and the only one to meet the commercial demands of the present and future. Several of those firs built have now compressed from 400,000 to 500,000 bales cotton, without defect of perceptible wear. The have secured a density (measured in the press) of 75 pounds to the cubic foot.

A FEW CHIEF MERITS.

1. It is, in all respects, simplest in construction, and least liable to disorder or breakage.

2. It is a steam power, and works faster than any of the hydraulic presses and has no packings to give out, when delays would be ruinous.

3. It has fewer points in motion, and consequently less wear and friction than any other compress.

4. Its wedge-shaped rack and cycloidal sectors secure a progressive leverage, nicely adjusted to overcome the increasing density of the bale, as the platen is brought home.

5. Its superior power has reduced freight to a minimum, and wherever located, has made the business of compress wonderfully successful, and at many interior points has doubled the receipts of cotton. New Orleans alone has nine of these manmouth presses: Memphis, three; Houston, three; Norfolk, three; others at Mobile. Galveston, Brenham, Dallas, Fort Worth, Paris, Jefferson, Shreveport, Little Rock, Vicksburg, Meridian, Columbus, (Miss.,) Selma, Wilminton, West Point, Va., Rome and St. Louis, and one may be seen daily at work in this city, (Atlanta.) PERKY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER.

There is nothing more painful than these diseases; but the pain can be removed and the disease cured by use of PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER.

This remedy is not a cheap Benzine or Petroleum product that must be kept away from fire or heat to avoid danger of explosion, nor is it an untried experiment that may do more harm than good.

PAIN KILLER has been in constant use for forty years, and the universal testimony from all parts of the world is, IT NEVER FAILS. It not only effects a permanent cure, but it relieves pain almost instantaneously. Being a purely vegetable remedy, it is safe in the hands of the most inexperienced.

The record of cures by the use of PAIN KILLER would fill volumes. The following extracts from letters received show what those who have tried it think:

Edgar Cady, Owatonna, Minn., says:

About awyear since my wife became subject to severe suffering from rheumatism. Our resort was to the Pain Killer, which speedily relieved her.

Charles Powell writes from the Sailors' Home, London:

I had been sfillicted three years with neuralization and violent spasms of the stomach. The doctors at Westminster Hospital gave up my case in despair. I tried your Pain Kuller, and it gave me immediate relief. I have recained my strength, and am now able to follow my usual occupation.

who have tried it think:

G. H. Walworth, Saco, Me., writes:
 I experienced immediate relief from pain in the side by the use of your PAIN KILLER.

E. York Says:
 I have used your PAIN KILLER for rheumatism, and have received great benefit.

Barton Seaman says:
 Have used PAIN KILLER for thirty years, and have found it a never failing remedy for rheumatism and lameness.

Mr. Burditt writes:
 Il never fail togstee relief in cases of theumatism.
Phil. Gilbert, Somerset, Pa., writes:
 From actual use, I know your PAIN KILLER is the best medicine I can get.

Stolen Trunks.—Saturday afternoon two ladies who have been connected with Jones's restaurant at the exposition hired a negro drayman to haul two trunks to No. 26 Gilmer street. Late in the evening the trunks had not reached their destination, and the ladies however the head in the trunks were found at one of the combing alarmed, caused the police to be noted. An investigation of the affair failed to develop anything until yesterday morning, when the trunks were found at one of the depots where they had been left by a negro drayman who had consigned them to Athens. The trunks were felentified and reclaimed by the ladies, but the thief is yet unknown.

Stella Cothes.—Last night just before the West Point train pulled out of the carshed a gentleman approached Officer McWillams and asked for the arrest of a negro boy who was then entering the train for the purpose of leaving the state. To the officer the complainant said that the negro boy, whose name he gave as John Moore, had storn a full suit of clothes from him, and that they were then in a trunk which he had in his hand. The arrest of Moore and an examination of the confents of the trunk proved the statement correct. The goods were turned ever of the owners, and Moore was taken to the calaboose.

SALE OF THE EXPOSITION BUILD-

The Property Sold at Private Sale by the Executive Committee of the International Cotton Exposition

To-day was the day fixed for the sale of the buildings of the cotton exposition at Oglethorpe park, and for the land and hotel where the Exposition hotel was located. Yesterday at the regular meeting of the executive committee of the cotton exposition a proposition was submitted by Mr. F. P. Rice and Mr. R. H. Richards to purchase the whole property at private sale. There was a full meeting of the committee, and the subject was thoroughly discussed and carefully considered. The committee decided that it was better to sell the property altogether, to parties who were able to make it available without tearing down the buildings and utilizing the purchase for old lumber. After maturely considering the offer made and arguing upon the details of the transaction, the sale was made to Mr. Rice and Mr. Richards. They agree to pay twenty-five thousand dollars cash for the land on which the hotel is situated together with the building and with all the buildings in Oglethorpe park, including the shafting, pulleys, pipes, pumps and fixtures, and the committee transfer to the purchasers whatever right to purchase they have to the boilers, etc. The land on which the buildings are situated inside of Oglethorpe park belongs to the city of Atlanta; the boilers and engines belong to the manufacturers who had them on exhibition during the exposition.

The executive committee reserves all the personal property, and it will be immediately moved into the city and sold at public sale. There will be hotel was located. Yesterday at the regular meet-

The executive committee reserves all the personal property, and it will be immediately moved into the city and sold at public sale. There will be no public sale at the park to day as has been advertised.

The sale was a good one and is more than the property would have brought if sold out in separate lots, as it would not have brought more than half the price of the lumber if sold in this way.

It is rumored that the purchasers contemplate a huge manufacturing establishment of some kind.
The purchasers are large capitalists in the city, and The purchasers are large capitalists in the city, and it is thought that they are backed by one of the strongest companies ever organized in Atlanta. If they have not organized a company, they can do so, and we feel satisfied they will, because they are men who have the entire confidence of the business men of the city.

POLICE COMMISSIONERS.

The board of police commissioners convened in regular monthly session last night. There were esent Commissioner Fox presiding, Commission ers Hancock, Goldsmith and Thrower.

The journal of the last regular meeting was read and approved.

The report of the station house keepers was read. It showed that during the month 122 state cases had been entered and that 49 had been prosecuted. It showed 359 as the number of meals for which the county is due the city; $15.55 as the amount of station-house fees collected.

Hills amounting to $51.60 were audited.

The following paper was read:

ATLANTA, Ga. January 9, 1882.—To the Honorable Board of Police Commissioners—Gentlemen: I have fully made up my mind to resign my office of police commissioner at the next meeting of the honorable mayor and general council, and now tender you this my resignation as chairman of your honorable moved me with.

Thanking you for the many kindnesses you have shown me, I am yours very truly, G. T. Dodd.

Thanking you for the many kindnesses you have shown me, I am yours very truly, G. T. Donn. This caused somewhat of a flutter, and expres-sions of regret by each member of the board were heard.

heard.

R. W. Pittman, a member of the police force, was arraigned for trial upon the charge of conduct unbecoming an officer.

Witnesses testified that they had seen Officer Pittman leave his beat frequently and enter his home, where he would remain for some time. The defense attempted to show that the charges against him had been preferred by a person against whom he had made a case.

At the conclusion of the case the charges against the officer were dismissed.

and introduced evidence sufficient to secure an acquittal also.

An election for chairman of the b-ard resulted in favor of Dr. Fox. Dr. Goldsmith's name was suggested for the position, but he declined to accept, and Dr. Fox's election was unanimous.

Chief Connolly's report showed that during the month 122 state cases and 493 city cases had been entered. Of the state cases 49 were prosecuted and 93 released. Of the city cases 344 were fined and 149 dismissed.

149 dismissed.
The amount of fines imposed by the recorder during the mouth, was shown to be $1,493,20, of which $1,638 was collected, $238 was remitted by the mayor, $26.50 was lost by escapes, and $90.70 was worked out on the streets.

The report also shows that $1,103.80 was paid to the city clerk; of this $1,038 was derived from fines, $57.20 was derived from station house fees and impounded stock, and $8.60 was derived from the pounded stock, and the prisoners. city for feeding state prisoners.
To this report is attached a statement for the last quarter, which shows that the revenue brought the city by the police force during that time was city by the police force during that time was $4,250.65.

The report which is general and comprehensive, closes by discussing the city, its condition and growth, the station house and police force.

The board then adjourned.
The resignation of Mr Dodd, as chairman of the board was a rather unexpected event, although there has been some talk of such a step by him. Ever since the rumor first gained a circulation Mr. Dodd has been visited by the best gentlemen of Atlanta who have used their strongest exertions to induce him to remain in the position which he has so long filled, and for which he was peculiarly adapted, but their exertions have proven futile, and the board of police commissioners loses one of its best, most devoted and most zealous members. Soon after the board adjourned, a Construction representative sought Mr. Dodd for the purpose of learning the causes of his resignation. The gentleman was found scrutinizing a ledger in his counting room, but when the reporter entered the book was closed, and with a face wreathed in smiles, Mr. Dodd said:

"Have a seat. Been looking for you. Thought you'd come,"

"Yes, I've come. Is this a dream, or are you "Have a seat. Been looking for you. Inought you'd come."

"Yes, I've ceine. Is this a dream, or are you really going to resign?"

"No dream, I assure you. I have, as you know, to night resigned the chairmanship of the board, and on Monday night next will send my resignation as a member of the board, to the city council. That don't look like a dream."

"No it don't. But Mr. Dodd why this sudden action?"

• "It is not sudden. I have been considering the sten for some time, and now every thing is in good

4"It is not sudden. I have been considering the step for some time, and now every thing is in good trim and I act. We have a good chief, four good captains and as good a police lorce as any town could have. We have a good board of commissioners, and I can't see that my resignation will affect the good of Allanta. I have been a police commissioner for ten years and think it about time to quit. I believe the city has thoesands of good men who will make splendid commissioners. No; I have served my time and am out."

"No chance to have you reconsider?"
"No chance to have you reconsider?"
"I never act till I consider, and then there is no use to reconsider."

use to reconsider."
"Who will succeed you?"
"I can't tell you. The council will soon let you know," and here the interview ended.
In the retirement of Mr. Dodd the city loses one of its best officials. For ten years he has served the city faithfully in the one position. The duties are arduous, and the office is a reservoir for complaints. The police force of Atlanta to-day is of his making, and what good there is in it is due in a great measure to Messrs. Dodd and Maheney.

MUSETTE.—Lotta produced Marsden's play of the above name to a large and fashlonable audience at DeGive's opera-house last night. His dramatic gem, a meteor, an ignis fatuns in brilliancy and rapidity, is as bright, as vivacious, her face is as merry, ber laughter as rippling, and the kick of her dainty heels as bewitching, as when she last visited our city. She is as sparkling as ever. We will not attempt to criticise her as an actress, nor will we claim any very great merit in her play. No one last night cared for the plot of Musette, for Lotta's an especial favorite, by the brightness of her humor, her piquant ways and girlish fun drew the audience to her, and created incessant laughter. The play affords ample scope to display her versatile individuality. The attractive little woman must flave been gratified at her reception which evinces how warm a favorite she is in our city. She is ably supported by a company who proved their adaptability for the roles assigned them—in fact, among them are artists of long experience and superior ability.

To night Lotta will produce her new play entitled "Bob." It has a well defined plot which is fairly preserved throughout. It not only shows Lotta at her best, but also gives her support a chance to be seen and heard.

THE VOKES FAMILY.—Mr. A. S. Pennoyer, the efficient and courteous business manager of the above combination, called at THE CONSTITUTION office yesterday and announced that the Vokes's were doing an excellent business, and according to engagement would cocupy DeGive's opera house the 18th and 19th. This is the first visit this combination has ever made south, and crowded houses greet them everywhere. Each member of the company is as bright and as funny as can be desired, and keep large audiences in roars of laughter from the beginning to the end of their performances.

ARKANSAS TREASURY TANGLE

A Committee at Work Trying to Unravel It. LITTLE ROCK, Ark., January 9. - The Churchill is vestigation, now in progress, has not developed to public reliable information. It is understood here by those in position to surmise, that the committee in their investigation found a discrepancy in the accounts of the late treasu now Governor Churchill, to amount of $165,000, which was made known to Churchill by the committee on the 24th day of December, 1881, by a certified statement of the several items going to make up the discrepancy. several items going to make up the discrepancy. The material items of which statement are: Upon account of state serip funded in 30-year 6 per cent state bords, $59,000; overpayment on coupons, $24,000; double credit on payment to German Pavings bank of this city, $13,000; amowbat of serip redeemed in currency from members of the general assembly and for state officers for which he has failed to account, $20,000; city railroad certificates, about $12,000; city and centify coupons and bonds, about $18,000; over-payment on ten-year bonds, coupons and certificates and excess of interest on thirty-year bonds, about $11,000, with sundry minor items to make the sum reported.

With this statement the committee furnished to bonds, about $11,000, with sundry minor items to make the sum reported.

With this statement the committee furnished to the late treasurer a list of errors to his credit amounting to near $20,000. This statement was furnished to call attention to the items therein contained for the purpose of giving an opportunity for explanation. The committee believing that, although there were no vouchers, either in the auditor or treasurer's offices for the city and county certificates and bonds reported paid, that if the late treasurer had an opportunity he might procure the evidence of the payment from the city and county officials. It is stated by Treasurer Woodruff that the late treasurer deligence to him about $3.5,000 in state scrip in excess of charges against him at the time of his settlement on surrendering his office to Woodruff. It seems this amount had accumulated in the office, and that Churchill was not able to give any reason for it. This amount may be by him placed as a credit on his deficiency. After all credits are given and accounts fully balanced, it is thought that Churchill will still be short $85,000.

The committee are very reticent in regard to the short $0,000.

The committee are very reticent in regard to the matter, refusing to give the exact data until Churchill can be heard, but judging from their deportment one would think they have no fears of being overturned by experts and lawyers. It is thought that in a short time things will be brought to light that will settle the status of this affair and present it in its true light. There is no particular excitement here as to the matter. Churchill's bondsmen seem to be the interested parties.

The First Step Towards the Trial of the Mabolica CINCINNATI, January 9 .- A Catlettsburg, Ky. pecial, says that a grand jury was empanelled o-day under a special act of the Kentucky legislature convening the court to try the Ashland ture convening the court to try the Asiland murderers. The foreman of the jury is John Russell, of Ashland, one of the citizens' committee formed to arrest and prosecute the perpetrators of this tripple crime. The jury is said to be the best ever gathered in Boyd county. It is supposed that they will not report till Tuesday morning. The prisoners, under guard of the state troops, will arrive Wednesday morning The feeling is that so long as the law takes its regular course towards a speedy trial, there will be no danger of interference by the people, but if another attempt is made to remove the prisoners, it will be hard to restrain the fary of the people.
